

November Updates

for
Beth Bowser's Readers

 Connected Logo

Monthly Reader Happenings

My November Writing Journey Updates

November in Summary...

November was something wasn't it? I don't even want to mention or get into the election or all the COVID-19 news, but at least there are 2 vaccines with high success rates!

On to better things, during the national month of writing a novel, NaNoWriMo for short, I joined a group of writers who gathered, through a zoom call, for 90 minutes every day to write. I have now written over 30,000 new words and am that much closer to my novel being complete!

In other news, I joined four other writers in starting up a SHEG (Super Hardcore Editing Group). Our first meeting is on 12/2!

Last news I have for you is that a short story of mine was accepted for publication through Gonzo Press digital magazine! The magazine is printed on the 15th of every odd month so my article will be printed in the Jan 15, 2021 magazine. I will remind everyone, with links to the magazine, after it's published :)

In October, I first finished Retribution Falls, book 1 of the Tales of Ketty Jay series by Chris Wooding...

Read More

 logo

As I mentioned above, I have been participating daily in NaNoWriMo and actually have quite a lot to show for it...

Read More

Welcome to my new website!

Goodbye MonkeyWithATypewriter

:(

Very sorry for the limited content this month! But I was writing considerably more AND I created this new website

This e-mail has been sent to you, click here to unsubscribe.

Powered by  mailjet